

- The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.
- Indiana's Telephone Privacy law has improved our time at home by cutting down nuisance calls by almost 100%.
- Indiana's law has been totally effective ... we used to receive upwards to 50 calls per week, now we receive one or less.
- If the FCC decides to make my telephone number available to businesses that used to have my number as an existing customer, I will lose all faith in the federal government having any concern for my privacy over the big business special interest groups that fund the political interests of politicians in Washington, DC.
